Tuesday Folks Anticipate
Big Sale for Friday
Night Event

Glendalians have a treat in store next Friday afternoon when the films of the beautiful historic pageant given in Yosemite National park during the convention of the Federation of Women's clubs will be shown at the Glendale theater under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon club. Many of the films are of historic interest and have been generously donated by the club. The price of tickets has been made very low, 20 cents for children and 35 cents for adults, that all may be able to attend. The "children tickets" have been made to include high school students up to the age of 18, as well as the grammar school boys and girls, believing that these older students will enjoy the spectacle as much or more than their little brothers and sisters.

Tickets can be secured now from Mrs. A. M. Williams of 208 South Orange, and members of her ways and means committee, and they will also be on sale at the theater on Friday.

The proceeds of this film pageant will be used to defray the cost of placing the name of Mrs. C. W. Taylor, founder of the Tuesday club, on the memorial roll of the Federation of Women's clubs, which is felt to be a tribute due to this brave and public-spirited woman who filled so important a place in the school activities for several years as principal of the Columbus Avenue school.

STRAY BULLET NARROWLY MISSES MRS. MILLER

Passes Through Window Near Her Head as She Sits in Home

A stray bullet, fired from a rifle by an unidentified person, narrowly missed Mrs. Miller, mother of C. G. Woods, while she was seated in her home on Tenth street near Grand View, at about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Immediately after the report was heard the bullet crashed through the window, passed close to the head of Mrs. Miller and lodged in the wall at the opposite side of the room. Mr. Woods, in reporting the matter to the police, stated that shots have been fired in the vicinity of his home for the past several days.

The matter has been taken up by the Glendale police and a thorough investigation is now being made.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE VISITS HOSPITAL

A delegation of the Women's Labor League visited the Children's hospital in Los Angeles, yesterday afternoon. The league has decided to vote their social meetings to sewing for these children. Those who visited the hospital were Mrs. J. V. Hale, Mrs. William Brown, Mr. A. D. Hurd and his sister, who is visiting here. Mrs. William Richardson.

METHODISTS TO HELP L. A. SCHOOL

Mrs. Ed Lee of North Belmont street is entertaining the northeast group of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church, Friday afternoon. The ladies are meeting to make comforters for the Girls' Spanish school in Los Angeles.

TWO INJURED

DETROIT, June 8.—Two mechanics were seriously injured, and nearly 100 spectators stunned by an explosion of a tank being enlarged on Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's cross-country airplane here today. The explosion was caused by internal combustion when an attempt was made to solder two 40-gallon tanks onto those already on the plane. Charles Barton and Norman McClellan, the injured men, were burned and thrown ten feet to the ground.

NEAR COLLISION

Cars driven by Herbert G. Woodard, 1623 South Gardner avenue, and Mr. Cluett of 221 West Ninth street, Los Angeles, collided on Central avenue at 4:45 yesterday afternoon. The machines were slightly damaged but no one was hurt.

Don't Sigh for the Unattainable Object But Work to the Top

Don't stop in your struggle until you have reached the highest place possible in your work, is the sound advice of James W. Foley in The Listening Post this evening. He takes for his subject the "Moon-cryer," one who is always wishing for something entirely out of reach. Creators of men's fashions have issued a decree which says that belts shall be replaced by the humble suspender, and furthermore that pajamas must be thrown into the discard for the old-fashioned nightgown. Henry James this evening has some comments on styles in general which are well worth reading. Besides this he talks to you in his usually interesting way on many other timely topics of the day.

Influences of the new head of the moving picture industry are beginning to be felt keenly and the making of better pictures is the theme for an editorial this evening which shows deep thought and an insight into the thoughts of others. There are other editorials too, one in particular, which should be read by everyone. It's about the criminally reckless driver.

To complete the editorial page there is Dr. Frank Crane's article which this evening is about the silk hat, Della Stewart's discourse, John Pilgrim's character study and the eastern point of view.

ROTARIANS GO TO BIG DOINGS IN LOS ANGELES

Carry Glendale Boost Into Auditorium in Solid Ranks

Another big crowd of Glendale Rotarians left town for the convention in Los Angeles this morning. In attending every day's meeting of the convention the Rotarians from Glendale have two aims in view—to see what is done at the convention and to advertise Glendale. The Glendale "Rotates" are rotating along the Los Angeles streets and through the hotels today, as they have done every day since the convention opened, and they are shouting the praises of Glendale to every visiting Rotarian with whom they come in contact. All those living in Southern California have heard of Glendale, so the Rotarians are centering their efforts on the visitors.

Although the convention is in progress, the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club of Glendale will not be interfered with today. The Glendale delegates will remain in a body all morning and when noon comes they will wander over to the Van Nuys hotel, where reservations have been made for luncheon. While at luncheon the regular business session of the organization will be held. Following the repast the members will return to the convention hall, where they will remain during the afternoon.

UNIQUE LUNCHEON FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Adobe in Selvas de
Verdugo

The members of the Kiwanis club will hold their weekly luncheon tomorrow at the Old Adobe in Selvas de Verdugo. The trip will be made in autos, leaving the city hall at 12:05 promptly. All members at noon having machines will be taken to the luncheon and returned. The Kiwanians will meet at the city hall at noon. Monkey business will occupy a large place on the program, as Coy De Vry and Mary, the largest and best educated chimpanzee in the world, has been secured through the courtesy of the Selva zoo, to entertain.

Mayor Spencer Robinson will be chairman of the meeting, and S. W. Brown will furnish the silent boost.

All members of the club are urged to attend this meeting and be at the city hall on time. This Kiwanis caravan is going to be a party royal, and D. H. Webb, club secretary, pledges his word that everyone will have a good time.

P. E. O. TAKES UP BUDDY WORK

Members of the philanthropic section of the P. E. O. met Wednesday afternoon and knotted two comforters for the disabled veterans who are to have homes at La Cresenta. It was a labor of love, and the ladies are not seeking any publicity in that connection. Mrs. C. D. Lusby is president of the chapter.

DORAN P. T. A. HEARS CAUSE OF INACTION

Superintendent White Explains Why Addition
Was Not Built

THE LAST BOND ISSUE

Coming of Junior High Changes Plans for Public Schools

What use was to be made of the last bond issue and why the proposed addition to Doran Street school was not made, was explained by Superintendent Richardson D. White at the last meeting of the year of the Doran Street Parent-Teacher association held at that school Wednesday afternoon.

Of course, one reason why the addition failed to materialize, was the high cost of building, which prevented the covering of all the projects outlined. Another reason was the uncertain situation with reference to the use to be made of the present high school buildings when the new high school plant is ready for service.

Its conversion into a junior high school and the establishment of another junior high school in the new school at Glendale and Park avenues, would materially alter the present situation. The present intermediate school would, in that event, be vacated by 7th and 8th grades and become a grammar school. It would accommodate so many pupils that the Doran Street school might not be needed at all. Anyway the building of new school houses elsewhere will take some relief when the board carries out its present intention of placing a portable school bungalow on that campus, all of which was set forth by Mr. White.

He was followed by Dr. Anderson, who made a wonderful talk to the mothers about the moral training of their children, touching on the responsibilities of fathers, especially with regard to the instruction of their sons concerning sex matters.

Children of the school also repeated as a program their contribution to the musical pageant at the Intermediate Tuesday night. Doran Street children, who were in the chorus, sang, Little Bo Peep, Jack Spratt and his Wife, Simple Simon, and Tommy Tucker, all performed their parts, cheered by appreciative applause.

As some of the members had come a considerable distance and the day was warm, iced tea and cake were served by way of refreshments.

Officers will be installed at the federation picnic, which will be held June 12 in the new pavilion of the Newport company on Glorietta street in Verdugo Woodlands.

MRS. COTTON HEAD OF MADRIGAL CLUB

Election of Officers Held at Odd Fellows
Hall

Officers for the ensuing year were elected Wednesday at a meeting of the Madrigal club, held in Odd Fellows hall. Those elected were: Mrs. John Cotton, president; Mrs. George Roach, vice president; Mrs. H. V. Henry, secretary; Mrs. Paul Hoffman, treasurer. Three new members were also elected to the board of directors—Mrs. W. P. MacMullen, Mrs. John Wright and Mrs. L. Vierick.

Mrs. Charles Parker, director of the club, received a very interesting letter from the California federation of music clubs, which she received too late to read at the meeting yesterday. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Parker: The very generous services of yourself and the members of the Madrigal club to the educational department of the California federation of music clubs in its recent concert, are most cordially appreciated by our entire board.

"The high quality of your work added immeasurably to the success of the program.

"We wish you to know that the federation at all times is at your service and that we value the fine cooperative spirit which your own and all other Glendale musical organizations and their executives have manifested towards the federation.

"With best wishes to yourself and the club,

"Very cordially yours,
"(Signed) CLARENCE GUSTLIN,
First Vice President, C. F. M. C."

REEVES TO SPEAK AT CITY CLUB

Selected for Principal Address at Saturday's Meeting

City Manager Reeves will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the City club in Los Angeles next Saturday. The subject assigned to him is "The Most Important Common Need of Our Suburban Communities."

Mr. Reeves will tell the Los Angeles people that this most important need is "Intelligent co-operation." And two of the most important things that should be co-operated on are adequate sewers and efficient and reasonably priced transportation.

"It is very easy to see," said Mr. Reeves this morning, "that the suburban communities are being discriminated against in favor of Los Angeles. Los Angeles wants to take care of its own city and she thinks that by making it harder for the suburban communities to exist she will assist in accomplishing this result."

"When Mayor Robinson was in San Francisco he rode all over the city for five cents, but when he comes back to Glendale he has to pay 23 cents to ride seven short miles. There is something wrong in a system of this kind. The suburban communities must fight every minute for their existence if they are going to retain it."

LABOR URGES HOME BUILDING IN U. S.

CINCINNATI, June 8.—Inauguration of a nation-wide home-building campaign as the surest way to restore stable conditions, was recommended today at the convention of building trades department, American Federation of Labor, here today, by President John F. Clinton.

Clinton also recommended creation of a national board, headed by the secretary of commerce, to help stimulate home building, and to put the entire construction industry of the country on a better basis. He urged that a strike control board be set up within the organization with power over strike movements similar to the power of congress of a declaration of war.

HOOVER REPLIES TO PROBE THEAT

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Secretary Hoover today returned the fire of senators who have been threatening an investigation to see whether the bituminous coal operators "buncoed" him in the recent price-fixing conference, and are now charging higher prices than the rest of the nation's gossip leave here to escape the limelight. Peggy has come—to recuperate.

Peggy denied she was planning a debut before the motion picture camera, at least at present.

"I am going to take a long rest," she said.

Accompanying her to her retreat is her "Belgian grief hound," who has been through so much that he weighs only a pound and a half.

They will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Morosco for several weeks.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS MEET

The regular business session of the Knights of Columbus was held Wednesday night in Odd Fellows hall. There was a splendid attendance and the routine of business was taken care of.

LEGION BUILDING PLANS TOLD

Committee of American Legion Meets to Consider Work

CALL FOR ESTIMATES

Architects to Be Selected
for Glendale Post Arcade Project

Last evening at 9 o'clock, the building committee of the American Legion met in the council chamber of the city hall to promote the progress of the American Legion's project for building and subdivision in the square block of the hospital grounds. Nineteen members were present; James McBryde presided as chairman.

Reports were turned in by the finance committee, the publicity committee, the auditing committee and the architectural committee. The various committee reports showed noted progress. The architectural committee in particular reported extensive activities. It is considering six of the most noted architects preparatory to selection, in order that plans may be submitted as soon as possible.

It was recommended that the architectural committee, which is headed by Capt. E. L. Goodspeed, submit as soon as possible estimates for a building on lot 22, which is the center lot, fronting on Broadway, and is 125 by 110 feet deep. The building planned for this lot is to be the new Arcade building of the Glendale post of the American Legion. There are three proposed lots on either side of the Arcade lot, which are to be sold. The two lots adjoining lot 22, fronting on Broadway and towards Jackson, are each 30 by 110 feet deep, while the lot on the corner of Jackson and Broadway is 37½ by 110 feet deep. The three lots towards Isabel and fronting on Broadway are of identical dimensions.

A procedure and organization committee, consisting of Dr. Mahry, W. H. Reeves and Gil Cowan, was appointed. This committee was instructed to draw up rules governing the activities of the various sub-committees.

The architectural committee will hold a special session this afternoon at 4:45, in order that it may submit a complete report as soon as possible. The sub-committees will meet again next Wednesday night at 7:30, in the council chamber of the city hall. This meeting will be followed by the regular meeting of the building committee, which will commence at 8:30 instead of 9:00, as heretofore.

TOKIO, June 8.—Admiral Kato, who played an important part in the Washington arms limitation conference as a member of the Japanese delegation, today was considered as the man most likely to be named as the new Japanese premier.

In case he is selected, it was believed that former Ambassador Shidehara would be named foreign minister.

As yet no definite announcement has been made, however, as to who will form the new government to succeed the late Takahashi ministry, which resigned early in the week.

STRIKE VOTE MAY BE UNION ANSWER

CINCINNATI, June 8.—The vote of the railroad workers on the strike question may be the only answer of railroad union chiefs to statements of six railroad executives issued in Chicago, declaring strike talk the result of union agitation.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad department, American Federation of Labor, said here today he would make no reply to the executives' statement for the present.

EFFICIENT METHOD IN HI PLANNED TO SAVE TIME

Blanks for Course Study
Distribution to Aid
Fall Opening

Today blanks are being given to all the students in Glendale high, accompanied by outlines of courses of study for them to fill out after consultation with their room teachers, of which there are now twenty students.

This will take care of the advance registration of all students now in the school, and as a similar plan is to be carried out with the incoming classes from the city schools, Eagle Rock, Sunland, etc., the registration of all except the new students coming in from other cities.

By this method pupils and teachers will secure their programs in advance, everything will have been systematized and school work can begin in an organized way the very first day. It is calculated that at least a week will be saved by this preliminary organization. Not until the roll room system was adopted could this plan be carried out. This system has worked so well this year it is certain to be continued next year.

U. S. AMBASSADOR TO WEAR KNICKERS

LONDON, June 8.—Ambassador Harvey has placed respect for royalty before the aesthetic effect of his nether limbs in knickers and has changed his mind and his pants at the eleventh hour. Tonight, at court, Harvey will appear in the traditional knee breeches, whatever the effect upon certain susceptible senators.

Twenty-one American ladies are to be presented at court by Mrs. Harvey.

COUNCIL TO HEAR PLAN FOR LICENSE

Proposed Regulation of Building Contracting to Be Heard Tonight

TO RAISE STANDARDS

Designed to Eliminate Irresponsible Builders
From Here

One of the principal topics of discussion at the meeting of the city council tonight will be the proposed ordinance for building contractors operating within the city of Glendale. It is understood that a number of the contractors have petitioned the council to create an ordinance of this nature. The council desires, therefore, to have as many contractors as possible at the meeting tonight in order that the opinion of all those operating in Glendale may be heard. It is not desirous of working a hardship on the contractors of Glendale or upon any of those building homes here. If the contractors really want an ordinance of this character the council is inclined to vote for it.

In requesting this ordinance some of the contractors claim that there is danger of irresponsible contractors, who are in the habit of coming into Glendale, putting up a few very unsatisfactory homes and then skipping out of the community, leaving the owners of the buildings to fight it out with the city building inspecting department with regard to the building being up to specification in every particular. This sort of action on the part of a few irresponsible builders, say the Glendale contractors, gives the whole building profession the "black eye," and makes all prospective builders suspicious of even the honest, responsible builder of homes.

INDICT STUDENTS AS DOPE PEDDLERS

CHICO, Cal., June 8.—Miles Hendrix, second year student in the Chico high school, and Yen Hong, Chinese, prominent in high school athletics, are under indictment today charged with selling narcotics to fellow students.

Yen Hong and his mother have both disappeared. Hendrix was in the custody of the juvenile authorities. He surrendered and was subjected to a medical examination which, it was stated, showed he was not a drug addict.

The indictments followed public statements by James Crain, foreman of the county grand jury, charging students had used cocaine and other drugs as a stimulant today charged with examinations. He asked that the school board offer $100 reward for evidence that would lead to arrests.

James Ferguson, high school principal, denied Crain's charges and has offered to pay the $100 reward himself if it were found that high school students were using drugs.

WOMEN BEAT MEN IN COLLEGE TEST

The men held that the bobbed heads had been previously schooled on the questions and knew just what to expect, while they were taken at a disadvantage.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

By Bert Marple

The Shrine club holds an open card to friends—they treat them right.

While Harry G. and wife tell how to sing:
Stray bullet fiend is running wild at Grand View, so 'tis said,
He points the gun and fires—the bullets sing.

Our Mesdames French and Miller, driving autos, come to grief,
They try to beat each other to the turn;
Central kiddies give a pageant, which is sure some show,
While catching dogs is latest art—we learn.

The "Rotates" advertise this town with colors and with noise,
Each time they give their yell the people stare;
The Glendale P. T. A. will picnic at Verdugo Woods,
Holdup on open road gives man a scare.

Jim Burke will jaunt to Honolulu—builders want a tax,
To Legion plans the Spanish vets say "yes";
And Reeves will speak at City club—White talks to P. T. A.

FAIRY FOLKS DANCE ON CENT. SCHOOL CAMPUS

Spirit of Childhood Pervades Production of
'Stolen Flower Queen'

By RUTH RYAN

The spirit of childhood hovered
over the campus of the Central avenue school, yesterday—that childhood which believes in fairies so keen that "The Stolen Flower Queen" was a living, throbbing, tragedy.

All the flowers of the Flower
Kingdom were greatly depressed
one morning upon coming to greet the Queen, when they found the throne empty. But Johnny-jump-up cheered them a bit, and the King of Weeds and his retinue appeared on the scene. The King announced that they had hidden the Queen of Flowers in the Weed
Kingdom, and unless the flowers
could find her in one day, the King
of Weeds would come to rule over them.

What really did happen, was shown in the presentation of the operetta "The Stolen Flower Queen," given by pupils of the 4th, 5th and 6th grades of Central avenue school on their campus.

This operetta was written by Douglass Whitehead, and music for same by G. A. Grant Schaefer.

Just preceding the operetta, a drill by "The Grasses and Sweet Peas" was given by the pupils of the 3rd and 4th grades. The grasses were all dressed in green and the sweetpeas were pink and blue. They were in charge of Miss Alice Livsey, Miss Bertie
Emery and Miss Janet Perkins.

Miss Annie L. McIntyre, principal of Central avenue school, gave a short talk of welcome to the visitors, which was followed by a splendid talk from Richardson D.
White, who also welcomed the visitors, and he said that this performance belonged to the school,
and they should be proud to be able to do such things.

At the end, the lovely Flower
Queen is rescued by the courageous Boy Scouts and returned to her waiting kingdom and instead of the Weed King coming to rule,
he is turned over to the mortal
wizard, Luther Burbank, who transformed him into a useful plant, and in gratitude for her release, the Flower Queen commanded the fairies to weave a spell of fertile fields and generous harvests and bestowed this gift upon the Boy Scouts.

This operetta was dedicated to Luther Burbank, the generous benefactor and lover of children,
whose services to the cause of
better fruits, more useful plants
and fairer plants, have been infinite.

Each part was exceptionally well played, and the many solos and choruses rendered were all splendid. The entire performance showed hard work on both the part of the children and their instructors.

Mrs. Etta Ray Kent was in charge of the music, all of which was very good, and Mrs. E. E. Harwood designed and made all costumes,
which represented flowers, weeds,
autumn leaves, and other plants.

Much credit is due Miss Elizabeth Edwards, who drilled the speaking parts. The accompanist was Mrs.
Helen Miner.

The operetta was presented before a green screen of pepper
boughs, which made a very effective background for the many colored costumes.

The different characters and
their costumes, were—carnations,
Betty Goodrich, Louise Elliott and Frances Payne, who were dressed in green bodices with pink frilled
skirts; daffodils—Doris Granicher, Katherine Bell and Margaret Campbell, their costumes were orange frilled skirt with lighter yellow petals and headbands of yellow; forget-me-nots—May Cummingham, Margaret Quinn and Nancy Killgore, who were dressed in light pink with forget-me-not snaps applied on their dresses;

the violets were Mary Pomeroy, Dwaine Paxton and Martha Jones,
their dresses being of deep violet
with a green sash at the waist
line; daisies were Catherine Henry, Dorothy Bissinger and Nellie Wallace, who wore daisy
petal skirts and black bodices;
Johnny-jump-up was played by Robert Whitten and he wore a green costume trimmed with purple and orange collar; the heralds
were Koswell Bassell and Charles Heustis, who were dressed in royal purple and gold; King of Weeds, Richard Torrey, dressed in a tan
costume twined with many varieties of weeds and carrying a wand upped with weeds. With him came many other varieties of weeds,
such as thistles, who were Howard Chase, Arthur Kilpatrick, Robert
Finlay and Robert Hawkinson.
Their costumes were gray with a touch of lavender. Poison oak was Lloyd Morgan, Leonard Davis, Gordon Carline and Richard Schuck,
whose costumes were half red
red trimmed with a little brown.
Nettles were Jesse Brown, George Hollister, William Newby and George McClammy, their costumes being dust brown and green. The autumn leaves were Elfrida Tro-nowski, Frances Farwell, Celia Logan, Mary Shimek and Ruth Long,
whose costumes were half red
and half yellow, and the material was cut in the form of leaves. The Indian Sprites were James James,
Milton Black, William Thompson, George Anley, John Koenig and

tained the program and year book committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Wednesday, at an unusually appointed four-course dinner.

A delicate color scheme of pink
and white was used, carried out with rose-tinted linens and a centerpiece of old-fashioned flowers.
Places were marked by clever place cards, on each of which had been printed verse complimenting
the recipient for her particular work on the committee during the year. Each sentence began with a red capital letter, giving each letter of the guest's name. The large letters made the names
stand out, which aided them in finding their places.

After the luncheon a social afternoon was enjoyed. The guests included Mrs. R. E. Chase, Mrs.
W. W. Worley, Mrs. S. R. Frazer,
Mrs. Andrew P. Findlay, Mrs.
Freeman McG. Kelly, Mrs. Eugene
Murman, Mrs. Lee D. Childers,
Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mrs. Mabel S.
Rudy, and Mrs. J. H. Franklin.

it was through her dancing class
we became acquainted and we will most surely always remember her.
Our address will be Mr. and Mrs.

Adams street expects to entertain this evening about 60 girls of the Westminster guild, who will first enjoy a cafeteria supper, at which special dinner favors in the shape of parchment diplomas will be provided for this year's college graduates. Then there will be a business session, an hour devoted to mission study, and then the initiation of new members.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS

The Royal Neighbors of America
will hold a social tea at the home of Mrs. Moltz, 363 West Lexington,
Friday afternoon, June 9.

Richard Garton, whose costumes portrayed the Indian idea very well, Chrysanthemums were Rose Bagley, Hartley Person, Rosario
Mirano, Louise Vorwerck and Ethel Sanders, whose dresses
were of green with slashed leaves of yellow and lavender. The Boy Scouts looked very brave in their regulation costumes and they were headed by Lockwood Frost. Other scouts were Ivan Robinson,
Clarence Avery, Robert Harris,
Gwynn Rohrer, Claude Straight,
Gilbert McCann, Donald Bentley,
Spencer St. Clair, Jack Farmer,
Tom Crawford, Clifford Koenig, Louis Vierick. May Goetz was the pretty Fairy Queen and her costume was of pink and blue, in a soft fluttering material. Her fairies were—Moon-Dawn, Lorraine
Masters, Star-Bearer, Edna Bley,
Sea-Mist, Ruth Bender, Pretty
Dorothy Killgore. Their costumes were typical of their names and were exceptionally pretty. The butterflies were beautiful in their costumes of purple and golden yellow, with the entire attached to their headband. They were represented by Virginia Endicott, Emeline Torrey, Virginia Farrow
and Marion Morgan. Of course the snow was represented by girls all dressed in pure white. They were Reita Shroder, Mildred Prager, Kvelyn Chase, Leon Rockhold
and Laura Cutter.

The beautiful Flower Queen,
Dorothy Buckman, represented
very well the American Beauty rose, in her deep red costume and headband. The Winds of course were sent out to find the Queen
and they were: south wind, Hazel
Howard, north wind, Elsie Chance;
east wind, Jennie Shirland; west
wind, Cornelia Hollingsworth. Different colors were used in their costumes to designate warmth, coldness, etc. Old Jack Frost was represented by John Cole.

This operetta was one of the best programs ever put on by the school. Everyone was ready with his or her parts and there was not a slow moment throughout the entire affair, which only proves that much time and effort had been spent to make it the great success
it was. There was a splendid attendance at both the afternoon and evening performance.

The world stretches out somewhen you miss the last train and have to walk.

SHRINE CLUB IS TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE AT TEMPLE

Decorations of Home Are Under way; to Entertain Visitors

"Howdy, Noble! The Glendale
Shrine club greets you." The club will hold open house at the Masonic temple, starting today, and continuing until all visiting Nobles
have returned to their homes.

A committee is decorating the temple today and when the first delegation reaches Glendale, after its long journey across the sands
from East St. Louis, it will receive a real Shrine welcome.

Noble Schneider left this morning for San Bernardino, where he will meet the delegation from East St. Louis. This delegation will reach Glendale about 4 p. m. today.
Refreshments will be served to every Noble and lady in the delegation. California flowers will be presented to everyone. Seventy-seven cars have been pledged for use during the open house. The visitors will be served refreshments and taken for an automobile ride through Glendale and the foothills.

The majority of delegates to the convention in San Francisco will visit Los Angeles and Glendale
after the convention closes. June 15, as many of the eastern trains have been routed through the north on the trip to California and will make the return through the southland. All trains will stop in Los Angeles and many will visit Glendale. So for the next two weeks "Howdy, Noble! Glendale
greets you and bids you welcome."

At the meeting of the Glendale
Shrine club last night the Nobles were given an unusual treat. After the business meeting the entertainment committee presented a musical program. Mrs. Mina Went-zell, vocalist, and D. Ripley Jackson sang a duet; Mrs. Wentzell sang a solo; A. C. C. Shiveley, tenor, sang; and Miss Gelfert besides accompanying the singers,
played several piano selections.

This program was appreciated
by the members, as everyone on the program is an artist of note.
The Shrine club chorus and Kelley's Shrine club orchestra gave several selections, which were appreciated.

MRS. M. HEWITT PASSES AWAY

Active Worker in Episcopal Church, She Was Greatly Beloved

After weeks of serious illness,
which was known to be fatal, Mrs.
Martha Hewitt, wife of Thomas E.
Hewitt and mother of W. E. Hewitt of this city, died Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Had she lived until July she would have attained her 75th birthday. She was born in Michigan and spent the greater part of her life in Detroit, but ever since her son became a resident of Glendale
she has visited him at intervals,
and for the past two years has shared his home at 911 East Randolph street.

She was a woman of unusual mentality, keenly interested in the movements of the times, particularly in civic affairs, and for many years was an active worker in the Episcopal church, of which she was a member. Because of her companionship and response to the things in which he is interested,
the relations between her and her son were unusually close, and her death is a great blow to him.

She also leaves two daughters,
who were with her when she died.
Mrs. George B. Fleming of Ikitanning, Pa., and Mrs. Charles Wouders, of Chicago.

Funeral services, which will be conducted by Rev. Hugh Cornell, will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hewitt residence,
and interment will take place in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

school, 1324 South Figueroa street.

ACME AUTO PAINT CO. IS NEW HERE

A new business establishment
for Glendale is the Acme Auto Painting company, which has its headquarters at 1027 South San Fernando road. Mr. French, proprietor of this establishment, has had years of experience in the auto painting business, and he promises
the motorists of Glendale the very best work at the most reasonable possible price. No time or effort will be spared that would result in better work and satisfied customers.

P. E. O. She was assisted by Mrs.
W. C. Wattle.

ladies worked on quilts and at noon
a delicious luncheon was served.

business session in which Mrs.
Ellen Kapus was invited into the chapter. There was a splendid attendance at this meeting.

JUNIORS TO HOLD SENIOR FAREWELL AT EAGLE ROCK

Assembly Votes to Say Goodbye at Mrs. Garrett's Home

Juniors of Glendale high held
an important assembly this morning to determine the character of the farewell entertainment which they are to give the seniors. The date fixed was Wednesday, June 21, and three propositions were presented by Loren Patrick, president of the class, who presided.

The first was a picnic at Brookside park, which was received with a unanimous groan. The second was a theater party at the Glendale theatre, followed by a supper at Cook's; and the third, a party at the home of Mrs. Garrett in Eagle Rock, from 2 to 6, where the grounds are large, and where there is a tennis court, billiard table,
photograph, and other means of diversion.

The Brookside picnic was taboo
from the first, and debate, which was animated, concerned the two other propositions. The convincing arguments on the Eagle Rock proposition, which was lost on the first vote and then unanimously carried, were that it will be something new and will bring the two classes together like one big family, instead of penning them up in a theatre, where they would have no social contact for a couple of hours, then feeding and dismissing them with the hope they had a good time.

MRS. ECKERT GIVES SURPRISE PARTY

Fox, Ernest Green, Miss Lillian Miller, Lester Green, Harry Eckert,

Crandall, Miss Vivian Willis,

Waltz, Miss Beatrice Carter, Mr.
and Mrs. E. Lamont, Mr. and Mrs.
A. Green, Mrs. Annie Eckert and
the honoree, Raymond Eckert.

The guest of honor received many beautiful and useful gifts
from his friends. Later in the evening, the hostess served a delicious luncheon, and everyone had a delightful time.

RECIPES PRESENTED DAILY BY KATE BREW VAUGHN

ASPARAGUS TOAST

Two pounds of asparagus, cut into one-inch lengths, cooked until tender (12 to 15 minutes). Drain and to the liquor (one cup) add
one-half cup of milk, two tablespoons flour and two tablespoons butter, cook in double boiler and stir vigorously while cooking.
Season with salt, pepper and pa-rika. Serve this on thinly sliced bread toasted to a delicate brown.

TWIN MOUNTAIN MUFFINS

One-third cup of shortening, one-fourth cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one egg, three-fourths cup of milk, two cups of flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt. Cream shortening, add sugar, then alternately the milk and egg beaten together and the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt. Bake in muffin tins—use hot oven—350
degrees, increasing slightly; Time
about 20 minutes.

PIN WHEEL BISCUITS

Make biscuit dough—2 cups
of flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, sift together, add four level tablespoons shortening, and two-thirds cup milk. Roll quite thin, and sprinkle with cinnamon and brown sugar. Begin at one end and roll as a jelly roll; cut
in slices one-half inch in thickness,
lay flat on baking pan, brush over with sweet milk. Bake in oven 350 degrees.

CHEESE TIMBALES

Two tablespoons of butter, two tablespoons flour, one-half cup of cream and one cup of milk, one-half pound of grated cheese (American) salt and paprika to taste; three whole eggs and two yolks of eggs in addition. Make a sauce of the butter, flour and liquid. In this melt the cheese, and the seasoning
and the eggs beaten well, adding
first the yolks and then the whites.
Bake these in small ramekins or timbales, standing them on a sheet of paper in the bottom of a pan of hot water—not boiling water. Cook until the centers are firm. Serve hot with cream or tomato sauce.

CHEESE CROQUETTES

One cup of white sauce, made
of two tablespoons of flour, two tablespoons butter, one cup of milk; add one cup of grated American cheese, season with salt, pepper and cayenne—few drops of lemon juice. Add when cold one and one-fourth cups of steamed dry cooked rice. Form into croquettes, dip in egg diluted with little water, roll in bread crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with white sauce.

CREAM SCONES

Two cups of flour, three teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup of shortening,
two eggs, one-half cup of rich
milk. Mix as baking powder
biscuits, add the egg well beaten and cream as one. Form into attractive shapes and bake in oven
about 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

READING CIRCLE DISCUSSES ITS PICNIC

Event at La Ramada to Be Marked by Assembly
of Table Utensils

The picnic at La Ramada on the 14th was the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the Reading Circle Wednesday, apart from the regular program of the day.
Mrs. A. A. Barton, who presided
as usual, announced that all former members were invited to be guests and that each present member would have the privilege of bringing one guest. Members were also instructed to bring their own knives, forks, plates, spoons
and cups.

Mrs. Bates of Eagle Rock was present as a guest and told of an organization similar to the circle
which is in existence in San Diego.

Several articles from recent magazines were outlined by Mrs.
H. V. Henry and recommended for summer reading. One on "Women's Clubs of Today and Tomorrow" was especially recommended.

A vote of thanks was given the newspapers for the publicity given
the circle the past year.
Following the luncheon the reading of the book "Table Talk in the Home," was concluded, and the circle voted to start its new year
with Dorothy Canfield Fisher's
book, "Mothers and Children."

'CLARENCE' IS BIG STUDENT SHOW TONIGHT

Performance This Evening Will Be First Night
of Brillancy

The last dress rehearsal of
"Clarence," the senior play which will have its first presentation at Glendale High tonight, was held Wednesday evening and served
the useful purpose of revealing any weak spots in production which will be duly strengthened today.
From present indications the "first night" will be a brilliant one. All sittings have been sold and Victor Colburn, the business manager of the play, is now figuring on the places wherein extra chairs can be placed to meet the clamorous
demands of late comers.

It is certain that the preformance will be a joy to the patrons
and it has been as great a joy to the cast in spite of the hard work
it has entailed.
Some kind of a celebration for members of the cast is being planned to follow the last performance Friday night, but just what it will be has not been decided.

thanked the circle for its invitation to attend the picnic, expressing regret that attendance on a convention of librarians at San Diego would prevent her acceptance.

L. A. REPUBLICANS SOLID FOR BILL TRAEGER

Executive Meeting of Young Men's League Gives Endorsement

At an executive meeting of the Young Men's Republican League of Los Angeles county, William Traeger, sheriff of Los Angeles county, was endorsed by that organization for the office of sheriff. Sheriff Traeger, together with other prominent Republicans in public and private life, representing all wings of the Republican party, is an honorary vice president of the young men's league.

In announcing the endorsement the officers of the league state:

"Sheriff Traeger stands for all those ideals of public service for which the young men of the league are fighting. He conforms to that standard of citizenship which the league desires to enlist in the public service. He has fulfilled all the pledges made to the people. Official public reports covering the conduct of his office show that he has saved the people of the county $1000 a month in the feeding of prisoners alone. Interest on trust funds heretofore lost to the people of the county now, under the changes brought about by Sheriff Traeger, accrues to the county treasury.

"These and many other of the constructive measures inaugurated during Sheriff Traeger's term of office, commend him to all voters of the county as a deserving public servant, worthy of their united support at the coming primary.

A. F. OF L. MAY ENTER POLITICS

Convention Leaders Claim Victory in Nomination of Brookhart

CINCINNATI, June 8—An impressive demonstration of organized labor's political power was in the making here today.

With all of labor's chosen leaders united on the fundamental idea that labor should make the most aggressive political gesture in its history in this year's congressional campaigns, the question most engaging their attention was the method by which the workers' political power could most effectively be exerted.

The desire and purpose of the leaders, which was clearly reflected by individual delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention, was summed up by William Johnson, president of the machinists' union, who said:

"What we did in Iowa, we will do in many other places. The nomination of Brookhart in Iowa was a clear cut demonstration of labor's power, for it was accomplished by organized workers in cooperation with the farmers.

"We may go on as we have, handling each state separately, with such organizations as we may be able to effect," said Johnson. "What we did in Iowa was done without the intensive organization we would have liked. It naturally spurs us on to better efforts. It was a demonstration to the country what we can do and will do."

The convention will be asked to adopt one of these methods of political action for this year's campaign.

1—A non-partisan campaign under the direction of a committee headed by Samuel Gompers.

2—A joint farmer-labor campaign, not controlled nor directed by the federation.

3—Thorough organization of a labor party.

James O'Connell, head of the Metal Trades Workers, who with Gompers and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor form the federation campaign committee, declared the convention should endorse the non-partisan campaign to secure election of men liberal and broad enough to deal impartially with legislation for the interests of the human being rather than the dollar gatherer. We want men to safeguard labor's interest against the sordid desires of the moneyed interests and the employing classes of our country."

The wage cuts ordered by the railway labor board and the Colorado coal decision by the supreme court have intensified the political feeling among the delegates. They feel, too, that the national administration, particularly congress, has been remiss in looking after the workers. Unemployment of the past few months, coupled with high cost of living about which the workers point out, congress has done nothing, have made them more aggressive politically than any set of labor delegates associated in this country.

"Beyond the Rocks" Wins at T. D. & L.

"Beyond the Rocks," the Rodolph Valentino-Gloria Swanson picture, will be shown at the T. D. & L. theatre for the last times today and tonight. This great love romance has already played to packed houses at the T. D. & L. theatre, but there are still many more Glendadians who will want to see it. As a final notice you are urged to see it tonight.

"Beyond the Rocks" is everything a big photodrama should be—it is romance, love, adventure—wonderfully produced and enacted. The story, by Elinor Glyn, well-known authoress, is absorbing and most colorful, while the combination of Valentino and Swanson is one of the most desired in film attractions of the day. Your evening will be well spent if you attend.

Thirty-three Dine and Hear President Kelly Complimented

Earl W. Hill, secretary of the Progressive Business Men's club of Los Angeles, was a special guest on Wednesday at a meeting of the Glendale club, held at Ye White Inn. About 33 members enjoyed the weekly luncheon and business session. Mr. Hill spoke briefly of the objects and purposes of the organization. He highly commended President W. B. Kelly for the business-like manner in which the business of the local club was being conducted. James Howarth served as secretary at this meeting, which was opened by a spirited singing of "America," with Captain D. Ripley Jackson at the piano.

The club accepted with thanks an invitation from Dr. Henry R. Harrower which was extended to club members, their wives or sweethearts, to be his guest at the regular monthly social of that institution, Tuesday, June 20, at 7:45 p. m.

Enroute to Mexico in Bonds, They Welcome Teacup Hour

Chinese "transits," Chinese traveling in bond through the United States to Cuba or Mexico are among the railroad's most interesting patrons, according to A. Cook, chief transit guard, Southern Pacific company.

Chinese are permitted to pass through the United States to foreign territory upon bond of $500 being given for each Chinese person. In the case of Chinese laborers coming from the Orient to work in Cuba or Mexico it is not practicable for them to furnish the bonds themselves and they are generally furnished by the transportation companies. Consequently special accommodations have to be provided and guards furnished to prevent escape of the Chinese passengers en route.

Two guards are assigned to each car. They keep watch to prevent escapes and also are required to do everything possible for the comfort of the travelers and to keep the car clean. The Chinese are very quick to respond to kind treatment and one of the standing orders to the guards is to "speak gently."

For meals en route the Chinese usually bring large supplies of dried and canned food and rice, and the guards purchase for them on route whatever else they need. Large quantities of hot water are used. At the guard's cry of "Quon Suey," or "hot water" sleepers awake, card games cease and tea pots appear from under seats and out of baskets. The guard is required to heat water three times a day in order that the "transit" may enjoy one of his greatest comforts—hot tea.

BURKE TO MAKE HONOLULU TRIP

J. J. Burke, one of the leading contractors and builders in this valley, will accompany the Shriners on their trip shortly to Honolulu. He will leave San Pedro at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, June 11, and will depart on the steamer Matsonia from San Francisco for Honolulu on the afternoon of June 16. The party will return to San Francisco on July 4.

The delegation will be accompanied by the Almalikah band, patrol and chanters. The members of this company expect to have the finest kind of a time and it is understood that several hundred Shriners will attend.

Truths in Enigmas

The world goes up and the world goes down, and the sunshine follows the rain; and yesterday's sneer and yesterday's frown can never come over again.—Kingsley 1819-1875).

Happiness depends, as Nature shows, less on exterior things than most suppose.—Cowper (1731-1800).

MAKING PICTURES BETTER

While many of the attacks upon the moving picture industry have been unwarranted by facts, the result may be beneficial. No advocate of moving pictures ever asserted that they were faultless, considered morally or as to technique. Every improvement in either particular will be welcomed. The determination of the producers themselves to bring about these improvements ought to silence the clamor for a general and crushing censorship. The destruction of so great an industry could not be desired on any ground. Censorship, as advocated by the Wilbur Crafts school of reform, meant nothing less than destruction.

The moving pictures have done more good many times over than then have done harm. That they have done any harm at all is largely a theory. In former days when a boy went wrong his conduct was ascribed to the yellow-backed novel, which in all probability had nothing to do with the case. In fact, the novel in question was on a fair higher ethical plane than much of the stuff that now passes as literature.

By the moving picture glimpses of life have been given to thousands who otherwise had small knowledge of it, and little time in which to acquire it. It has opened to them visits of beauty of which they never had dreamed. It has afforded them an insight into letters, art, history and science. It has been distinctly educational.

Aside from this aspect, the fact that production has become one of the great industries of the country is to be considered. Actors, writers, specialists, skilled mechanics, have found new market for their wares or for their ability. Authors of the first class have entered the field. They have consented to screen portrayal of their masterpieces and in many instances have taken part in the actual work.

At the head of the whole business now is an executive whose record in other important roles has won him high standing. His influence is being felt. It reflects the demand of the public for the best. The crisis that for a time the producers seemed to face, has vanished, overcome by the attitude with which they met it.

AN INDIAN MYTH

General Pratt, for twenty-five years superintendent of the Carlisle school for Indians, hotly denounces the methods of the Indian bureau. His remarks are in perfect consonance with those of William Hart, recently mentioned in these columns.

The bureau appears to be making a frantic effort to demonstrate its own usefulness, and the high esteem in which it is held by the Indians. General Pratt cites the recent visit to Washington of Yakima braves in all the splendor of feathers and paint. These visitors informed the "Great father" that they did not desire any change. It was their ambition to remain wards of the government, and not to be elevated to citizenship. Pratt affirms, in effect, that all this, and other spectacular business of the sort was publicity buncombe. Such there is reason to believe it was.

At various times Indians have displayed fine qualities of citizenship. In the late war thousands of them volunteered, and they fought bravely. They did not have to go. They chose to go. Pupils at the old Carlisle school took readily to educational methods. The school has been abandoned because, after all, it was a failure. The pupils were not being trained for useful careers. When they emerged they found themselves still in the ignominious station of wards, under the orders of agents whose honesty they doubted, and whose motives they did not respect. They had been educated to fitness for a certain plane, but they were not allowed on such plane. Deliberately they were shoved off and shoved down. They yielded to circumstances, and continued useless because the government denied them the privilege of being useful.

If the Indian bureau can produce no better evidence of good character than is constituted by a lot of braves arrayed in primitive fashion, it has reason to be ashamed.

THE AVOIDABLE ACCIDENT

Among the fatal accidents that marked last Sunday was one at a grade crossing. A woman was the victim. She had been a passenger in an automobile that was driven in front of a speeding train. Not that the train was moving very fast, for it was within municipal limits and subject to police regulations.

People who viewed the scene of accident declare that the track was in sight for a long distance on both sides of the crossing. If this is the case, the driver could have had no excuse for being in a position of danger. No driver has any right to approach a grade crossing without having his machine under perfect control. No driver has any shadow of right to try to beat the train, for at the most, the detention would be a matter of but a few seconds, a period of no consequence to passengers taking a ride for pleasure.

The grade crossing accident is one that is avoidable, but that reckless drivers choose not to avoid. There does not seem any method by which it can be prevented so long as grade crossings exist. There is no signal to appeal to the intelligence when intelligence is lacking. No more solemn warning could be given than is to be discerned by the discreet in the total of deaths. No catastrophe seems grave enough to set up a spirit of caution among survivors.

Hence the avoidable accident continues to be unavoidable. It is avoidable only in theory. The growing mortality list shows that in fact and practice, it is unavoidable.

PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS

There can be no doubt that President Harding has won the approval of the country several times when it has been necessary for him to take direct issue with congress. One instance was when he stayed the onslaught directed against the army and navy. He did not convert the "little navy" fellows, but he caused bigger men to rally, and to encompass their defeat. The result is that the country is left with an army and navy instead of a mere tradition and memory of such establishments.

The merchant marine is a new issue, and has provoked a new contest. President Harding favors the merchant marine. It is probable that in common with other Americans, he would be glad to see it started and maintained without a subsidy. If it cannot be brought to a flourishing condition in the absence of a subsidy, he desires it subsidized. Certainly in no other way could it be put on an even basis for competition with commercial rivals.

No nation ever had a better chance to cause its ships to sail all the seven seas, carrying the American flag to every port through which trade passes. The end of the war found this country with an immense tonnage. Even eliminating that which had been hastily and badly constructed, and really represented nothing but waste, there were sound bottoms in plenty available for commercial purposes. At once arose demand for an American merchant marine. It has not been met. National pride, and the natural desire to find a market for American products continues to accentuate this demand. The President has heard it. Perhaps he may be able to make congress hear it.

MR. SMITH MISUNDERSTANDS

A correspondent whose identity is at least partially revealed by the signature "A. J. Smith" writes to protest against a recent editorial. He says frankly that he did not like it, and intimates that his support is not to be counted upon hereafter. The gentleman is well within his privileges. It is to be hoped that the support may be devoted to some worthy cause, and in its absence that the paper shall survive. All the trouble was over the word "comrade." Somebody calling himself a socialist had rebuked Editor McGroarty for mentioning a grand army man as "comrade." This is a title that has prevailed among the old soldiers for the full time of their organization. Their comradeship is close, and as their numbers dwindle, becomes more precious to them. The effort to take it away, and especially to claim it as rightfully belonging alone to socialists, did seem a presumption. Upon second thought, it still seems a presumption. If Mr. Smith continues to law strewn on the matter he will cause it to appear an insolence, which is several degrees worse than a presumption.

With these few remarks the subject may be dismissed, and departing, take with it Mr. Smith and his belief that to be a comrade one must first be a socialist.

THE SILK HAT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Taking it by and large, the silk hat is the most significant piece of clothing ever worn by human being.

By silk hat we mean, of course, the tall, stiff chimney pot otherwise known as the plug hat or the stovepipe or the topper.

It is one of the best symbols of the strange power of tradition and custom, the strange momentum of imitation, even when it never did contain any shadow of sense or comfort, of use or beauty.

Tradition has it that the silk hat was invented by a London hatter somewhere around 1853 by the name of John Hetherington. He wore his own invention out on the street. A horse saw him and ran away. The owner of the horse sued Hetherington. The record of the case is still in the English law books. The hatter was acquitted, probably on the grounds that any man, and particularly an Englishman, had a right to those as outlandishly as he possibly can.

Anyhow the silk hat, like tobacco and the tango dance, speedily conquered the world. Perhaps the most pregnant act of the Genoa conference, when the history of the case comes to be written up in future, will be that of Tschitcherine, the bolshevik envoy, who appeared before the representatives of the nations with a silk hat.

It subtly signified that sovietism had bowed to capitalism.

The whiskered bolsheviks back home read of that they must have felt a good deal as the farmers of North Dakota felt when they read that Ambassador Harvey had appeared at the English court in knee "pants."

The sartorial customs of the English parliament are curious. Silk hats were formerly the traditional headgear. The war broke up that custom, however, although Mr. Keir Hardie in 1892 shocked everybody by appearing in the house in a tweed suit and cloth cap.

The present parliament sees but few silk hats. Winston Churchill made a sensation the other day when he appeared on the front bench of the house wearing the traditional topper. Although he wore the hat as a result of a bet it is likely to set the fashion.

There are curious hat customs in parliament. The wearing of silk hats was almost universal in the days when leaving a hat was the only method of retaining a seat.

The hat according to the accepted ritual can only be worn when the member is seated. When he rises either to speak or leave the house he must uncover.

A member can second a motion by simply raising his hat without losing his right to take part in the subsequent debate. But if he simply says "I second the motion," he cannot reserve his right to speak.

Only when wearing a hat can a member raise a point of order after a division has been called.

Another custom that strikes the American as curious is seen in the theaters, where between the acts gentlemen arise and put on their hats and either stand in their place looking about the house or wander out into the lobby.

This custom is said to date back to the time when gentlemen wore plumed hats, by which they were enabled to bow much more effectively to the ladies.

Altogether the silk hat is the best symbol of that congeries of notions, traditions, whims, and habits which attach to the term "gentleman."

THE LISTENING POST

We read of children crying for the moon.
Which is all natural enough, perhaps.
For children.
Whose minds are immature and who are attracted by color and brightness.
And the moon at its full in a clear sky is a mighty attractive thing.
Such as a child might cry for.

But later we learn that the moon is not to be possessed.
Except at a distance by all of us.
And we stop crying for something that is out of reach.
And aim to content ourselves with things that are nearer at hand and reachable.

Still, there are a good many moon-cryers in the world.
People who mistake insatiable desire for ambition.
Desire and ambition are entirely different.
Ambition is a reaching out.
A spreading of the mental and spiritual wings.
A desire to excel.

Ambition is a reaching out for the best there is in one's self.
It is not a crying for the moon.
It is not a desire to be president of the United States with the equipment of a mortar carrier.
But it is the desire to be the best mortar carrier possible.
And to progress perhaps from mortar carrying to brick laying.

We have, all of us, limitations.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Night's Mardi Gras—By Edward J. Wheeler (1859 —)

Night is the true democracy. When day
Like some great monarch with his train has passed.
In regal pomp and splendor to the last,
The stars troop forth along the Milky Way.
A jostling crowd, in radiant disarray.
On heaven's broad boulevard in pageants vast.
And things of earth, the hunted and outcast.

Come from their haunts and hiding-places; yea,
Even from the nooks and crannies of the mind
Visions uncouth and vagrant fancies start,
And specters of dead joy, that shun the light,
And impotent regrets and terrors blind.
Each one, in form grotesque, playing its part
In the fantastic Mardi Gras of Night.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

TRY FILLING THE JAILS

[Springfield Union]

The courts have all the latitude they need in dealing humanely with those brought before them, and there exists no occasion whatever for the legislature to amend the procedure of the superior court with respect to suspended sentences. The court already has the power to place offenders on probation, and the power to continue cases before imposing sentences. Thus in one sense the bill vetoed by the governor did not affect the powers of the court, yet it was unhelpful for legislation of a type distinctly encouraging to criminal elements who have already received quite enough encouragement in similar directions.

Let it once be thoroughly understood that Massachusetts, for the time being at least, is doing with the reformers' ways of curing crime and is going to place reliance in punishment that really punishes, and we think our criminal statistics will soon make decidedly better showing. Having emptied the jails to no good purpose, let us try filling them with those who properly belong there.

WHAT THE MEN WON'T WEAR

[Brooklyn Eagle]

The clothiers have decreed that the masculine contingent shall discard pajamas in favor of a new-fangled night shirt; that suspenders must be worn, along with sleeveholders, and that solid square-toed rubbers are henceforth to be the real thing in rainy-day footwear. We are especially interested in the "trouserless pajama" with which the tired business man is expected to decorate himself for slumber.

Whether this creation is supposed to be pro-Chang or pro-Wu, we do not know; but it is decidedly Chinese, and suggests nothing so much as a mandarin's afternoon tea gown. We quote, resisting the temptation to use italics, capitals, exclamation points and ordinary profanity: "It (the trouserless pajama) comes double-breasted all the way down to the shins—the coat-shirt idea carried further. It has double rows or frog fasteners, is called especially smart in confused shades of heilottrop, elephant's breath gray or pale femon, and frequently has a shawl collar of contrasting color and raglan sleeves."

We admit that this nocturnal outfit has its good points. It would doubtless provide endless entertainment for a sleepless youngster who might stop crying to play with the frog fasteners; it might send a second-story man into hysterics, or amuse the family laundress, but we cannot imagine a regular American dolling up like that.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Makers of styles have issued a command that masculinity, long accustomed to belts, shall throw these away and wear suspenders. They have added the ukase that pajamas go into the discard and be succeeded by the night gown.

By such imperativeness as these the makers of styles create a fervent wish that they would attend to their own affairs. The nerve of them!

There is no objection to the wearing of suspenders by anybody who cares to wear them. Men who for a score of years have not felt the pull, and the clammy contact caused by the presence of suspenders, will keep their belts. They are not slaves to any horde of petty tyrants. The trousers are made so that the weight does not hang from the waist, but is distributed over a wide personal area. Hence it is no burden. Hence suspenders are an anachronism and a nuisance to most.

As for the night gown, human liberty again is at stake. Pajamas are far more seemly in case of fire. They are ample, comfortable and respectable.

They have endeared themselves to the wearer. He holds towards the night gown a feeling much similar to that with which he regards the corset or the teddy bear. The latter two are all right, but they do not belong to him, and he doesn't want them.

So far as the average belted male, accustomed to pajamas, is concerned, the makers of styles may go hang themselves.

Mrs. Obenchain is reported as laughing and joking as her second trial for murder approaches.

There is nothing to equal a sunny disposition.

There is to be soon a debate on the subject of evolution.

Such a debate is bound to be interesting to every participant, and each to emerge from the forensic battle field with precisely the opinion he carried there.

The determination of the McCormick girl to marry her antique hostler is interesting only because she is the child of great wealth. The spectacle of the kid defying Grandfather Rockefeller is novel, and must be rather astounding to that worthy gentleman.

While speculation concerning the outcome of a marriage usually is futile, when it represents the union of wealthy June to impoverished December, a safe bet is that it will end in a smash. For June has no sense, and December lacks conscience.

Collectors are wrangling over the worth of certain stamps originating in the Hawaiian Islands. If they are genuine they are valued at a fortune. If counterfeit they are without value. But even if genuine they could not carry a letter.

The incident shows how the wholly useless wins to a new status just because somebody wants it.

It would seem that the keepers of gas service stations might learn something from the frequency of robberies, but they don't learn a thing. They continue to maintain such stations as hoarding places for small fortunes, and they are surprised and grieved when the ambulant thief of the night requests them to hand over.

The most recent haul (at this writing) was $5000. The presence of such a sum is nothing less than an invitation.

A German resident of Nebraska sues to obtain money that he donated to the Red Cross in war time. The sum is $1000. He also invested $1800 in government securities. He asserts that he did all this at the point of pistols, and while ropes were displayed by earnest citizens in the near distance.

Probably it is true that residents of Nebraska and of other states, if believed to be in sympathy with Germany, were subjected to certain harsh exactions, largely as a penalty for their lack of patriotism.

Contributions to the Red Cross rested on quite a different basis usually. The case is unique. Perhaps the plaintiff is entitled to sympathy, and perhaps he will get it. But on the second "perhaps" there is emphasis.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

All this week I've been sitting in a new little office down the hall. My own is being renovated and cleaned and generally made unpleasant and beautiful. And all this week I have been receiving platoons and companies of blackmailers. I have lacked the protection of Gerald, the gun-chewing office boy. He can bounce these pests with discourtesy and despatch. I cannot.

"This," said my latest caller, "is a little magazine being published in the interest of the poor children of the Fourth Steppe from the West in the Far Southern Republic. Only ten cents."

"I don't want it," I said.

"But it is only ten cents," said she, with a coaxing smile. The implication was that an insect who wouldn't shoot a dime for the poor children of the Far Southern Republic was something lower than a snail's writing desk.

"I don't want it," I said. "I am not taking any professional interest in the Far Southern Republic just now. I will not give you a dime. I don't want to be bothered."

"But they need hobby horses," she said, patiently.

So, my patience having been exhausted by the fact that she was the fifteenth during the day, I opened the door and told her to get out. And as I held the door open, the solicitor for the Little Brothers of the Chinese Monasteries came in and offered me a chance to buy a magazine for a quarter that would tell me all about the monastery movement.

I have ceased falling for these ladies and gentlemen. Some of them may be honest but misguided, but I doubt it. The greater part of them are just miserable, penny-grabbing, dishonest grafters. I have been giving them money simply because I have been too weak morally to refuse. All the time I have known that for every worthy cause there is an organized agency through which money is honestly collected and honestly disbursed. Not long ago agents for a Russian organization for the relief of something or other had a cleanup in this town. After the harvest was learned that the Russians were bolsheviks. We had been contributing to the bolshevik funds—we, poor, sap-headed, weak, easy-going Americans.

It's about time that we waked up and discovered that we have been imposed upon, wholesale and retail, by every greedy nation and individual on earth. Giving is good. It expands the soul, and affords one a pleasant flutter about the heart. But being an easy mark is one thing and being benevolent is another.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Railroads of the United States receive from mining nearly six times as much freight as from agriculture, nearly four times as much as from manufactures, and between six and seven times as much as from the products of forests.

Alaskan salmon fisheries yield products worth about $40,000,000 annually, give employment in normal seasons to about 20,000 persons, and represent an investment

ABIDING FAITH IS TRIBUTE OF CIVIC LOYALTY

J. F. Stanford, Pioneer
Realtor, Identified With Glendale Since 1910

An abiding faith in Glendale is an outstanding attribute of its loyal citizens. Among the foremost of these is J. F. Stanford, pioneer realtor and builder, with offices at 112½ South Brand. Mr. Stanford has for many years had an unwavering faith in the future of Glendale and he has been prominently identified with its upbuilding since 1910, during which time he has built several hundred of the best homes here and has sold many more. Practically every home for one solid block on Burchett street, between Pacific and Columbus, was built by Mr. Stanford some years ago, and it is today one of the most attractive residence blocks in the city. He also built in the early days many of the finest homes on Central avenue, all of which are monuments to his skill as a builder, being, after these many years, still among the best homes in the

The fine home shown above is one built by J. F. Stanford on Central avenue about five years ago, and the one below is an eight-room Spanish stucco duplex he has just completed on Lexington drive. This duplex is elegantly finished in old ivory and is beautifully decorated, has tiled baths and kitchen, instantaneous heating system, and furnace heat throughout, large double garage with cement floor and driveway. The price is $10,000, of which $2500 has to be paid in cash, the balance can be paid in monthly payments like rent. This duplex will bring an income of $100 per month, one side being already rented for $50 per month on a year's lease. For further particulars inquire of J. F. Stanford, owner, 112½ South Brand, telephone Glendale 1940.

city. Since these early days Mr. Stanford has built homes in practically every section of Glendale. As a further evidence of Mr. Stanford's faith in Glendale and to keep up with its rapid business development, he has recently added many new and attractive features to his office, including three fine signs, and will soon install one of the handsomest window real estate displays in the city.

And last, but the most important of all, a thoroughly wide-awake, hustling, up-and-going sales force has been engaged, and from now on every department of the real estate business, including loans and insurance, will be given the most thorough and active attention. Clients of this office will receive the benefits of its experience, advice and service without obligation.

Members of the Glendale Realty Board will be called to a meeting of that organization next Wednesday night in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce to discuss the exclusive contract and multiple listing system and the possibility of adopting this method of selling real estate in this city.

Secretary E. P. Hayward of the realty board was instructed to send notices of this meeting to all members of the board. There will be no noon meeting next Wednesday, as the night session will be held in lieu of the regular lunch. Practically all of the board members are in favor of this system, as it tends to sell property to a better advantage for both the agent and the owner.

Under this system a house, when listed by the agent operating under the multiple listing system, is placed on an exclusive contract for a period to be set by the board. The house is turned over to the central listing office of the board and given to all members using the system. If the agent who secured the original listing sells the property he gives 5 per cent of his commission to the realty board for the expense of the bureau. If another agent using the system makes the sale the selling agent receives 50 per cent of the commission, the agent securing the listing gets 45 per cent, and the remaining 5 per cent goes to the board.

The advantage to the owner with his house listed under the multiple system is that, while it is listed exclusively under the system, 60 or more members of the board are trying to sell this house. This system may be adopted by the board. A committee to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of the system was appointed several weeks ago and will report. Terms of listing and selling will be worked out after the adoption of the system if such action is taken.

PARK YOUR PETS AT YOSEMITE

YOSEMITE LODGE, June 8.—Yosemite park rangers have been relieved of the job of boarding the cats and dogs of visiting tourists. Yosemite regulations forbid cats and dogs in the park. This is for the protection of wild animal and bird life.

Until recently, inbound parties, upon being told of this regulation, would ask the ranger at the control station to keep their pets for them. As rangers are always obliging, they were so imposed on by cat and dog owners that an order was issued that cats or dogs could not even be kept at the ranger outpost stations. This means, hereafter, owners of cats and dogs will have to find a suitable boarding place for their animals, and also pay parties outside the park for taking care of their pets.

Little Peter stood on the steps of his house watching the vicar depart. Peter was armed with a pea shooter. At the sight of the big black hat his eyes gleamed. He raised the pea shooter and aimed. His mother made him apologize.

"Well," she said, afterward, "are you really sorry?"

"Yes! But I'm glad I didn't miss, 'cos it was my last pea!"

Heaven always gets your picture when you are not posing.
